BC Renaissance Festival will give all performers access to “official video or images” of their show (If any is acquired) for use in their own promotional materials. BCRF will promote all performances by including them on the official BCRF webpage and in the program book (performer must confirm by book deadline June 14, 2012). BCRF will also inform the performer of any promotional opportunities pre-festival (media, parades) so that they may take advantage of these. Initial: _____

Only show animals are permitted on the grounds. These animals cannot roam the property or be carried through the lanes and must be ‘tucked away’ when not in a show. BCRF does not provide animal sitting services. For pet regulations please see the policy on the webpage www.bcrenfest.com under general info. Initial: _____

Weapons must be peace-bonded or kept in the greenroom when not being used on stage for your performance. Also weapons must be carried safely while in transit from the stage area to the greenroom, or their storage. Weapons rules and regulations can be found on the webpage. Initial: _____

The performer will do pre-performance warm-ups only in the ‘performers private spaces’ designated by the Festival. No warm-ups on stage or in the public eye will be permitted. Please arrive early so that your show will not start late. If you are late, your show will not begin so that it does not go over its allotted time. Initial: _____

The performer will dress in a manner appropriate to the Festival and their agreement with the festival. We may be historically influenced but the shows should feel like they belong. Example: Black Jeans are fine as long as a long fencing shirt covers logos and indications they are jeans. NO modern logos. NO blue jeans. Initial: _____

BCRF cannot, at this time, provide power, amplifiers or additional tech. Amplifiers are not required on any of the stages. Only the pub stage will be amplified. If you require power and have your own sound system, please request the Pub Stage or if you have a battery powered system please let the Entertainment Coordinator know so they can set your volume level.
